Making a channel from the anikat across the Southern Pinakini River at Madappanahalli.

Summary of discussion.—The holders of wet lands under tanks at Sarjapur, Huskur and other places have suffered a good deal owing to the failure of rains for some years. The tanks in this locality are small. The excavation of a channel from the anikat constructed across the Southern Pinakini river at Madappanahalli about four miles from Sarjapur will bring a large extent of dry and banjar lands under wet cultivation.

Reply of Government.—The Deputy Commissioner will investigate the proposal and write to the Public Works Department.

It is desirable in the interests of the people that the Assistant Commissioner's office should be located at Sarjapur which is centrally situated as regards these two taluks.

Reply of Government.—Noted for consideration.
